Wednesday January 20, the loft

Well, it has certainly been a busy few weeks! I had a nice trip in Genovia, but I missed my friends terribly. I also missed my boyfriend Michael a lot. I couldn't call him because I didn't have his phone number, and I couldn't email him because I didn't have a computer connection at the palace. Grandmere gave me a book to read called 'Jane Eyre'. I read it and decided to call Michael less often to let him know I loved him. Grandmere thinks this is a good way to keep a boy in love with you. Finally I arrived back in New York and called Michael. He asked me out on a date! He wanted to take me to a movie and I said yes. I can't wait. Then my Grandmere did something terrible. She told Principal Gupta a lie. She told him my father was ill and I would have to take a day off school to see him. But he's not really sick at all. She just wanted to take me shopping to buy a dress! She wants me to look great for a special ball on Friday night. I learnt some terrible news today, Dave has broken up with Tina! He broke up with her because she hadn't returned his call. I hope Michael never breaks up with me, I love him more than anything in the world. Except for my cat Fat Louie!
