

1 BUSINESS OR PLEASURE?

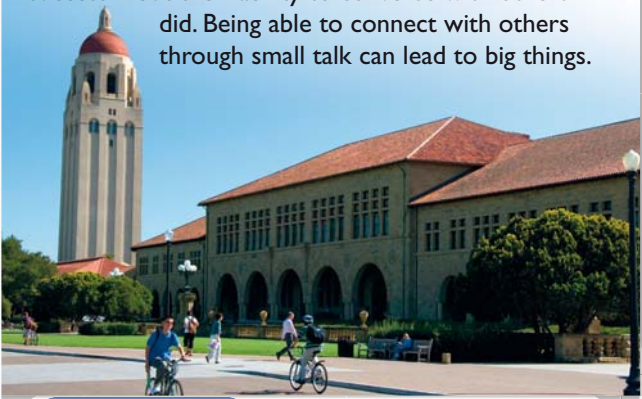

All things being equal, people will buy from a friend. All things being not quite so equal, people will still buy from a friend.

MARK McCORMACK, WHAT THEY DON'T TEACH YOU AT HARVARD BUSINESS SCHOOL

- 1 How important do you think it is to actually like the people you do business with?
- 2 Read these two short extracts from different business articles. Is the point they are making equally valid in your country?

www.CareerBuilder.com

A study at the Stanford University School of Business tracked MBAs ten years after they graduated. The result? Grade point averages had no bearing on their success – but their ability to converse with others did. Being able to connect with others through small talk can lead to big things.

When Jack Welch gave a guest lecture at MIT's Sloan School of Management in 2005, someone in the crowd asked, 'What should we be learning in business school?' Welch's reply: 'Just concentrate on networking. Everything else you need to know, you can learn on the job.'

- 3 How good are you at small talk? You are going to practise networking with a business contact.
 - a First, briefly note down some information about yourself in the chart below. Omit or change any of the topics you want to.

- b Work with a partner to set the scene of your conversation. Where are you – at a conference reception, a social event, in the coffee break at a training seminar? Are you enjoying yourself? How did you travel there? What's the weather been like? What's been happening in the news lately?
- c Swap personal information with your partner and use this and the scene you built up in b as the basis for your conversation. How long can you keep the conversation going? The language in the conversation phrase bank may help you.

4 How did the conversation go? Which topics had the most mileage? Did you find anything in common?

CORPORATE ENTERTAINMENT

1 The Japanese economy has had its ups and downs, but Japanese firms continue to spend around $40 billion a year on corporate hospitality. Can that kind of money ever be considered well spent? Should it be the first thing to cut in a recession? How can entertaining clients and colleagues be good for business?

What better way to build and maintain (a)_____ with key (b)_____ and to reward star (c)_____ of your (d)_____ than to offer them a unique and unforgettable (e)_____ far away from the pressures and constraints of an (f)_____ environment? Whether it's front row (g)_____ at the Metropolitan Opera in New York, a VIP (h)_____ at the World Cup Final, a private (i)_____ at the Guggenheim Gallery in Bilbao or a champagne (j)_____ at the Paris Ritz, we can provide the ideal (k)_____ and first-class (l)_____ that will leave your guests simply saying 'Wow!'

3  1.01 A group of Russian business people, who are about to collaborate with you on a major international project, is visiting your London office. As part of the planning committee, it's your job to decide on a special event to celebrate their visit. Listen to some of the suggestions of the other committee members and take notes.

4 Work in two groups to find out about four different events you could take your Russian visitors to. Group A turn to page 138. Group B turn to page 147.

5 Pair up with someone from the other group and discuss the options. Prepare to briefly present your recommendations.

MAKING CONVERSATION

1  1.02–1.03 Listen to some business people chatting at two corporate events and answer the questions.

Conversation 1

- What's the connection between Helen Keating, James McRae and Alan Sullivan?
- When Helen asks James 'Mind if I join you?', how does he reply?
N..... a..... a..... B..... m..... g.....
- What excuse does Helen make for leaving the rest of the party?
- Two of the following mean 'That can't be true.' Which two?
You're joking! ☐
You're fooling! ☐
You're kidding! ☐
- Helen and James use several expressions to refer to memories. Can you remember the first three words of each expression? Contractions (it's, you're etc.) count as one word.

- somewhere before?
- me to forget a face.
- recognised you.
- back to me now.
- remember spending most of the evening fighting off some creepy little guy called Alan.

Conversation 2

- How would you describe relations between Mr Ishida and Mr Thompson?
warm ☐ amicable ☐ cordial ☐ cool ☐ strained ☐ frosty ☐
- Mr Thompson uses the word 'so' five times during the conversation:

So, Mr Ishida, let me freshen your glass.

So, how are you enjoying the match?

So, tell me, have you been to one of these big tournaments before?

So, shall we return to our seats?

So, do you still play?

Why does he need to use it so often? What's the equivalent word or expression in your own language?

- Mr Ishida says he's too old to play table tennis now. Mr Thompson replies 'Oh, I'm sure that's not true.' Is he:
paying Mr Ishida a compliment? ☐ calling him a liar? ☐
- Mr Thompson tries to use his background knowledge to keep the conversation going. Complete his remarks below.
 - I h..... you're quite a tennis fan.
 - I u..... the Japanese are world table tennis champions.
 - I s..... the Nikkei's looking strong. That m..... be good news for you.
 - I r..... somewhere that things were improving. Or a..... I mistaken?
- What word is Mr Ishida avoiding by saying the following?
Not at the moment, thank you. Not really. Not especially.
Not any more. As a matter of fact, ...

- 2 Work with a partner. Practise avoiding saying 'no'.

THE NO-NO GAME

Prepare

Write down eight false (but believable) statements about yourself, your job, your family, your interests, your company or your country. When you are ready, swap lists with a partner.

Play

Imagine the two of you are chatting at a conference or corporate event. Take it in turns to make wrong assumptions about each other using the lists as a starting point but adding remarks of your own if you can.

e.g. I hear you're based in Rotterdam.
I understand you're a keen golfer.
I believe your company's about to be involved in a merger.
I read somewhere that Russia will be joining the EU soon.

Your objective is to get the other person to say 'no'. Their objective is the same. Use the expressions opposite to help you avoid saying 'no'.

Whoever says 'no' first loses.

 - 7 I'll two to chat. See you later.
- d What do the following remarks tell you about Ricardo and Élise's relationship?

Long time no see.

You haven't changed a bit.

*Neither have you.
Charming as ever.*

Ricardo and I go back a long way.

I'll have whatever you're having.

- 4 Work with a partner. Practise paying and receiving compliments.

THE MUTUAL APPRECIATION GAME

Conversation phrase bank

You're looking well!

Hey, nice ...!

What (a) brilliant/fantastic/fabulous ...!

You know, that/those ... really suit(s) you!

I (really) like your ...! Where did you get it/ them?

By the way, you did a great job in the meeting/presentation the other day.

Prepare

Spend a few minutes thinking of compliments you could pay your partner. Use the expressions opposite to help you.

Play

When you are ready, start exchanging compliments with your partner. Respond to each compliment you receive in an appreciative but modest way. See who can give the most compliments in under a minute!

- 5 They say 'Flattery will get you everywhere.' How important is it in your culture to

- a pay people personal compliments?
- b compliment them on their work?

Does it depend on how well you know each other or how senior you are? Is it different for men and women? Can it ever be risky?

6 According to Dale Carnegie, author of the all-time best-selling people skills book How to Win Friends and Influence People, 'You can make more friends in two months by becoming interested in other people than you can in two years by trying to get people interested in you.' Work with a partner to practise keeping up a conversation.

First choose just three 'hot buttons' from the list below – topics you are especially interested in talking about, but don't tell your partner what they are!

Then take turns to ask each other questions from the list. Whenever your partner asks you about one of your hot buttons, you should speak enthusiastically about the topic for a minute or so. If the topic is not hot, then just reply very briefly and ask your next question.

Whenever you or your partner hit a hot button, you score five points. When you miss, you lose one point.

The game ends after ten minutes or when one of you has hit all the other's hot buttons. Whoever has the most points at the end of the game is the winner.

Vocabulary: Small talk

1 Put the conversation in the correct order.

- ☐ 1 We were just talking about this new sports centre they're building. Do you play any sport at all, Kim?
- ☐ 2 Not yet, no. Why, are you doing something?
- ☐ 3 Against Real Madrid? No, I missed it. I had to go to a birthday party.
- ☐ 4 No problem. Oh, before I forget. I've got two tickets to see them in Manchester if you're interested.
- ☐ 5 No, me neither. Talking of football, did you see the match last night?
- ☐ 6 Oh, right. Thanks for telling me. Incidentally, have you still got my Rolling Stones CD?
- ☐ 7 Me? Well, not really. I used to play a bit of football.
- ☐ 8 No, nothing special. By the way, sorry to talk business, but did you remember to send that estimate to Clive?
- ☐ 9 Pity. It was a great game. On the subject of parties, have you made any plans for New Year's Eve yet?
- ☐ 10 Did you? Me too. I was never any good, though.
- ☐ 11 Oops! Yeah, sorry. I meant to give it back to you. I'll bring it in tomorrow. Thanks for lending it to me.
- ☐ 12 Yeah, I sent it yesterday. Oh, that reminds me. Clive said to tell you he won't be able to make Thursday's meeting. He said he'd call you.
- ☐ 13 Are you kidding? Of course I'm interested! I've never seen them live.

From: Charles Wellcome
To: Deborah Newton, Stephen Clark, Willem Maes, Tatiana Korbitt
Subject: This year's client hospitality event

Dear all

As you (1) know / are knowing, the annual client hospitality event (2) is fast approaching / will fast approach and, as yet, we (3) did not make / have not made a final decision on where to hold it this year. One or two of you (4) already came forward / have already come forward with suggestions, which (5) are currently considered / are currently being considered, but, as we (6) will have to / are having to make the necessary arrangements quite soon, I'd like everybody's input on this asap.

What I particularly (7) want / am wanting to avoid is a repetition of the fiasco we (8) had / have had last year at the showjumping event. Apart from the fact that very few of our clients (9) have / are having even the remotest interest in the sport, the atrocious weather (10) meant / was meaning that we (11) walked / were walking backwards and forwards through the mud between the showring and the hospitality tent all day. The whole thing (12) was / has been a complete disaster. People (13) still complained / were still complaining about it six months later!

This year we (14) have planned / had planned to do something more cultural like go to the opera or even a musical, but (15) I've wondered / I've been wondering if this is a good idea. A musical event (16) doesn't seem / isn't seeming to be the best place to network. We can hardly ask the singers to keep the noise down while we all (17) have / will have a good chat!

I (18) do think / am thinking, however, that an indoor event (19) makes / is making most sense, so can I ask you to (20) think / be thinking along those lines over the next few days? (21) I've scheduled / I'd scheduled a meeting for next Friday to discuss the matter further. So, (22) I'm speaking / I'll speak to you all then.

Charles

- 6 I've just been. Am I back?
a yes b no c maybe
- 7 When I arrived he was just leaving. Was he there when I arrived?
a yes b no c we don't know
- 8 When I arrived he'd just left. Was he there when I arrived?
a yes b no c we don't know
- 9 I've tried to phone her. Am I still trying?
a probably b probably not c we don't know
- 10 I've been trying to contact her all morning. Am I still trying?
a probably b probably not c we don't know

You use the Present Simple to talk about permanent facts (I'm Spanish), routines (I get home at seven each evening) and scheduled future (The bus gets in at one).

You use the Present Continuous to talk about current, perhaps temporary, activities and situations (I'm staying at the Hilton) or future arrangements (I'm flying to Rome in the morning).

You use the Present Perfect to talk about things that started in the past and continue up to the present (It's rained for a fortnight), personal experiences no matter when they happened (I've only ever snowboarded once) and things which have an immediate consequence (I've lost my car keys). Words like already, yet and since are often in the same sentence as a present perfect verb.

You use the Present Perfect Continuous to talk about things that started in the past and may be recently completed or not yet completed (She's been rearranging her office, I've been working here since January 2002).

You use the Past Simple to talk about finished past actions or states (I studied engineering at Oxford, I was a happy child). Phrases like last week, a year ago, in 2006 etc. make the time reference clear.

You use the Past Continuous to talk about an action in progress in the past (The company was losing money). The Past Continuous gives the background to more important events which are in the Past Simple.

You use the Past Perfect to emphasise that one event happened before another in the past (By the time I left college, I'd already decided I didn't want to be a lawyer).

Some 'state' verbs like think, know, understand and seem are not generally used in the continuous form unless the meaning is different: I think = I believe; I'm thinking = I'm considering something.

will is a modal verb and, amongst its other uses, one of many ways of talking about the future (I'll see you later).
